PRESS RELEASE

31 March 2017

Agreement with Vega Energy

The Board of Arundel AG (“the Company”) is pleased to announce that the Company has today entered into an agreement with Vega Energy Partners Ltd (“Vega”) pursuant to which the Company will have the opportunity to invest in certain energy infrastructure assets and natural gas trading activities in the USA and internationally. Vega is a privately held company based in Houston, Texas which through its principals and predecessor companies has been engaged in the management, optimization and development of natural gas assets for more than 25 years. Vega manages over 80 bcf of natural gas storage and 4 bcf per day of transportation under long term contractual arrangements with its customers. Various projects under discussion with Arundel involve the establishment of a trading platform and the development of pipelines which benefit from long term “take or pay” agreements with large US transportation companies and consumers.

Dr Klaucke, the Chairman of Arundel stated “We are extremely pleased to announce our agreement with Vega today. The acquisition of RP&C International in October of last year brought deep roots in U.S energy to our Company and this agreement with Vega provides an excellent opportunity for investment in the energy sector. Vega is a very well regarded participant in US energy infrastructure and is well known to certain of our US shareholders who have been investors with Vega for more than 10 years. With the election of Donald Trump as US President, energy infrastructure investment in the US is thriving and Vega provides the type of high quality opportunities that will allow your Company to benefit”.
